

Super Subs of Noble Green: Inspiring the Next Generation of Golfers

The Super Subs of Noble Green is a group of young golfers who are making a difference in their community. They are dedicated to making the game more accessible and enjoyable for everyone, regardless of age, background, or ability.

The Beginning

The Super Subs were founded in 2010 by PGA professional Jamie Donaldson. Donaldson was inspired to start the group after seeing the positive impact that golf had on his own life. He wanted to share that experience with other young people in his community.

The Super Subs started out with just a handful of members. But word quickly spread about the group's mission, and soon they had dozens of young golfers eager to join. Today, the Super Subs have over 100 members, and they are one of the most active junior golf programs in the country.

Making Golf Accessible

One of the Super Subs' main goals is to make golf more accessible to young people. They do this by offering a variety of programs and activities that are designed to appeal to a wide range of golfers.

The Super Subs offer weekly group lessons for golfers of all ages and abilities. They also host regular tournaments and events, which give young golfers a chance to compete and have fun.

In addition to their on-course programs, the Super Subs also offer a variety of off-course activities. They host field trips to local golf courses, and they provide educational programs on the history and rules of golf.

Inspiring the Next Generation

The Super Subs are more than just a golf program. They are also a community of young golfers who are passionate about the game. The Super Subs provide their members with a supportive and encouraging environment, where they can learn about golf, make friends, and develop their skills.

The Super Subs have had a profound impact on the lives of their members. Many of the Super Subs have gone on to play golf in college and beyond. Others have become involved in the golf industry, and they are now using their skills to help other young golfers.

The Super Subs are an inspiration to us all. They show us that anything is possible if we set our minds to it. They are also a reminder that we can all make a difference in the world, no matter how small.

How to Get Involved
